Legislators Give Views On Salary Hike

KINGSTON — Ulster County's four state legislators are less than enthusiastic about the proposed $19,000 salary increases for state lawmakers, but have somewhat varying attitudes on not only legislative and judicial salaries but the lulu system as well.

State Sen. Edwya E. Mason (R-48th Dist.) said he didn't think he could support any salary increases for legislators or judges and State Sen. Richard E. Schermerhorn (R-40th Dist.) said he felt the proposals "were ill-advised."

Assemblyman H. Clark Bell (R-101st Dist.) said his first impression is "negative" and Assemblyman Emanuel Betros (R-99th Dist.) would be "inclined" to oppose the $10,000 increase.

Mason of Hobart said that considering that New York State is the most heavily taxed state in the United States and because he has "strenuously" opposed all tax increases in recent years he therefore doesn't think he can support any salary increase at all.

With regard to judges' salaries, Mason was sharply critical saying, "Judging by the opinions they hand down, a good many of them are overpaid now." He also suggested that we do not need any more judges. "I think we need better judges."

The recommended salary increases would cost $2.1 million a year for the 210 senators and assemblymen and $2.8 million a year for the state's judges.

Sen. Schermerhorn said he is "satisfied" with the salary he is getting as were most other legislators when they were elected.

The Newburgh resident feels that due to reaction to the proposals, the commission is either going to drastically change its suggestions or do nothing at all. He said that because there actually is no bill before the legislature, he cannot really have an opinion on the proposals.

Special

Schermerhorn said he doesn't believe in the lulu system as it stands now and would like to see it abolished in favor of a per diem voucher system with a daily maximum allowed, for instance $40 a day to cover room, food, travel expenses would be extra. The senator, who like his fellow lawmakers, gets $5,000 a year in lulus said he would collect well over that amount on the per diem basis.

"I had $11,000 in expenses last year so they can keep the lulu," he said.

The present $5,000 lulu is a flat grant but extra lulus are paid to legislative leaders and committee chairmen which range from $3,500 for the lowest ranking member of the Senate to $21,000 a year for the Senate majority leader and Assembly speaker.

Schermerhorn pointed out that most legislators have additional incomes from the private sector but he said that the present $15,000 a year salary is a "hardship" on the few who do not.

Assemblyman Bell said that in the past he has opposed and voted against legislative pay increases but, he points out, there has been no compensation adjustment since 1966.

"If the cost of living index for the years between 1966 and 1973 were added up and the pay increases granted employees in private industry and government service were added up, it would exceed the recommendations of the pay commission."

"However," Bell said, "due to the press of legislative business such as increased penalties for drug pushers, court and pension reform and preparation of the supplemental budget, I have not had the opportunity to read the rather voluminous report of the commission."

He said that as of Thursday, Gov. Rockefeller had not filed a proposal with the legislature and therefore the matter is academic at this time. "If, as, and when, the governor does submit a concrete proposal, I will review it and evaluate it and report to the people of Ulster County in a press statement," Bell said.

"My first impression however, due to the encouraging but yet unstable condition of the state's economy, is negative," he concluded.

Assemblyman Betros said he too had not had time to properly explore the committee report which was received Tuesday and which is at least three quarters of an inch thick. But he too is in favor of the elimination of the lulu system and replacing it with vouchers.

Watergate Investigation

Special Prosecutor to be Picked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A special prosecutor will be named to supervise investigation aimed at "uncovering the whole truth" in the Watergate scandal, Attorney General designate Elliot L. Richardson announced today.

Richardson, himself designated just a week ago by President Nixon to take command of the government inquiry into the widening scope of the plot and subsequent efforts to cover up its scope, said the person selected would be given "all the independence" necessary to conduct a full and impartial investigation.

Richardson read a statement of his plans during an appearance at the Pentagon before newsmen, and declined to answer any questions about who the prosecutor would be.

He explained that the reason was his forthcoming confirmation hearings, starting Wednesday, by the Senate Judiciary Committee which he said was the only "appropriate forum" for such questions at this time.

Several possibilities for the job have been mentioned, including William T. Coleman, a Philadelphia lawyer who was of the plot and subsequent efforts to cover up its scope, Harvard and who later served with Richardson as a Supreme Court clerk to the late Justice Frankfurter.

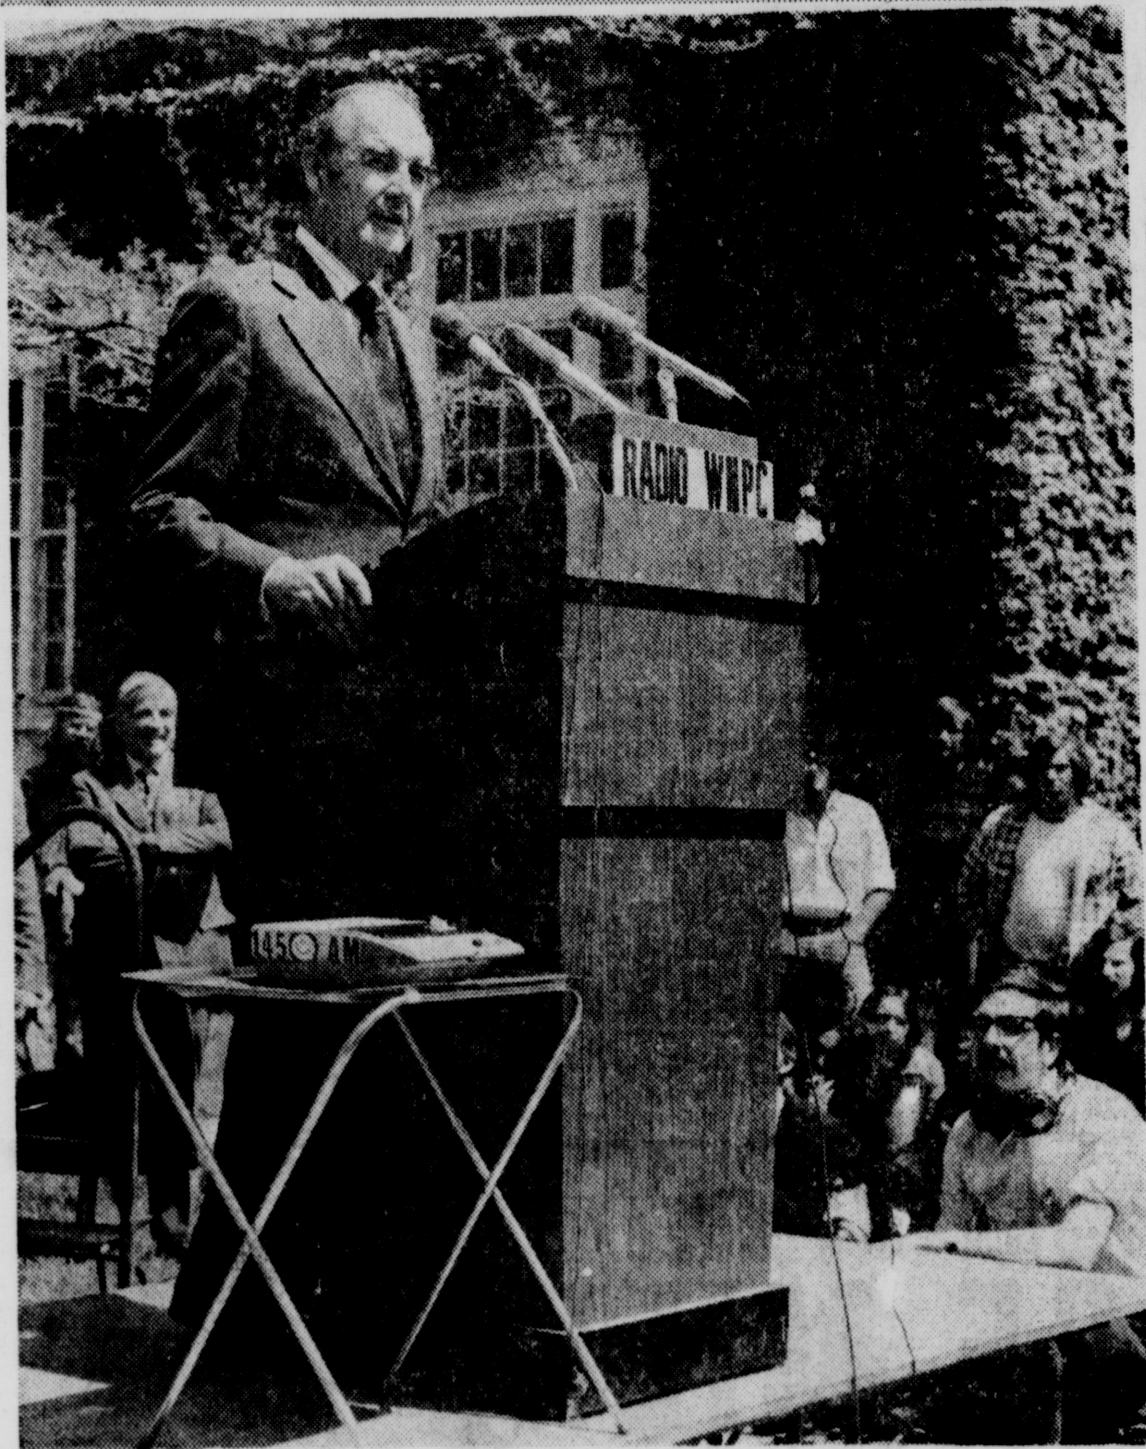

Coleman was asked this morning in Philadelphia if he had been asked to take the job. He refused to comment on all questions related to the matter.

Richardson said at the outset to have and would name him as conspirators E. Howard Hunt of his Pentagon appearance rapidly as possible. Many Jr. and G. Gordon Liddy, who that he wanted the Judiciary Committee to know, before it started hearings on his nomination.

Reports linking Pentagon Papers trial to Watergate affair may be clarified. Story on page 20.

McGovern 'Gratified' Over Settlement

By WADE BURKHART

NEW PALTZ — Senator George McGovern of South Dakota, learning of the announcement of a negotiated settlement ending the 69-day occupation of the hamlet of Wounded Knee by militant American Indians while visiting New Paltz Sunday afternoon, said he was "enormously gratified."

He had earlier spoken in the Main Quad of the State University College at New Paltz. His address was part of the Student Government Association-sponsored Spring Festival, with his appearance sponsored by the SGA Lecture Committee. He spoke to a crowd of about 1,000, and received standing ovations on his arrival, at the close of his formal address, and at the end of his question-and-answer period.

"Every fair-minded person agrees that the American Indian has legitimate grievances," said McGovern, but he deplored the tactics used by the American Indian Movement-led Wounded Knee insurgents in their armed takeover of the hamlet.

Wounded Knee is in McGovern's home state of South Dakota, and he received a number of questions about it from a group of American Indians in the audience. He said he and many other people were "embarrassed" by the broken treaties with the Indians, but that the AIM tactics at Wounded Knee "can't be justified."

Admitting it was an unfamiliar role for him, McGovern praised the handling of the Wounded Knee situation by the Nixon Administration. He said it was not flawless, but he could fault it in no major areas.

The Senator's formal address was entitled "The Continuing Arrogance of Power", and in it he attacked the continued military action of the U.S. in Southeast Asia. He soft-pedaled the Watergate affair, but was asked a number of questions on it in the question-and-answer session.

McGovern blamed the vast majority of the violations of the Paris Peace Treaty on the government of South Vietnam. He said that there were bound to be problems and violations on both sides since North and South Vietnam had been at odds for so long, but that no American journalist had yet filed a first hand report of North Vietnamese-initiated fighting.

The bombing in Cambodia in support of the Lon Nol regime particularly galled McGovern. He said that regime was "failing and faltering", and that it was "insane" to continue to support it since support of a weak government led to the Vietnam war.

In the question-and-answer session, McGovern said one of the most unfortunate aspects of following his speech how he assessed his chances in South Dakota, and he said it would diverting both public and governmental attention from being an "uphill fight", though he thought he would win with enough hard work. He said being away from South Dakota during his two-year campaign for the Presidential nomination had hurt him in his home state, and that the image of a "wild-eyed radical" — he called it a "distortion" — painted of him during the Presidential campaign had also hurt.

He admitted he had made some mistakes in the campaign, but said they were "mistakes of the heart" and he had no apologies to make. He noted that he had carried "New Paltz and some other important places around the country."

Vogt Refutes NAACP Charges

By JON POWERS

KINGSTON — Ulster County District Attorney Francis J. Vogt today termed charges leveled against him last week by local NAACP president Everett Hodge as "ridiculous and completely false," and warned that, "he (Hodge) is simply not going to run my office."

Last Wednesday, the NAACP filed a federal lawsuit against the district attorney, a member of his staff and personnel of the Kingston Police Department on behalf of two students arrested Nov. 15, 1972 following an altercation with police at Kingston High School.

The NAACP maintains that the students' constitutional rights have been violated, and that the district attorney's office has refused to act on a police brutality complaint filed by the two students.

The day after the lawsuit was filed, Hodge accused Vogt of having "a personal vendetta against the black community," said the district attorney was "hostile and arrogant" during criminal proceedings against the two students, and refused to cooperate with the black community by dismissing all charges.

"I dismissed all but four of the cases, and these four involved assault on police officers," Vogt said today. "If no officers had been injured, and school officials wanted the matter dropped, I would have dropped it. But two policemen were injured. I'm not about to grant any special favors for any group."

"How can they ever expect to have any discipline at the high school," Vogt added. "If the students feel they can assault a police officer and get away with it?"

The district attorney said he is "not prepared to concede" charges of police brutality "without further substantiation." He said he will request transcripts of all the trials stemming from the case, and will thoroughly investigate the police brutality charges once the cases are completed.

Vogt said he has met several times with Hodge, the attorneys for the accused students (Nathaniel R. Jones and James Meyerson of the national NAACP office; Stanley Paulkner of New York City) and with Rev. John Gilmore, director of the Kingston Human Rights Commission, to discuss the charges and incident.

"I advised Rev. Gilmore that it was my obligation to treat all persons equally, and I could not in good conscience extend special consideration to certain groups because of their color," Vogt said.

"Because I have refused to permit Everett Hodge to run charge be dismissed," I saw no my office," Vogt added, "he has grounds for dismissal." Vogt accused Hodge of a "personal vendetta against the black community," and that Hodge was "attempting to use the NAACP as a tool for his own purposes."

Vogt said Hodge came to him after the woman was arrested, charged that the Ulster County Welfare Department was "racist" and demanded that the charge be dismissed. "I saw no my office," Vogt added, "he has grounds for dismissal."

groups because of their color; that Hodge has a "grudge" or for any other reason, against the district attorney's office, and that his accusations happen," the district attorney stem directly from a separate case last year involving a black that an arbitrary dismissal of woman arrested for altering these cases might foster in the welfare check.

Assembly Votes on Sports Authority

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Watchfully waiting for decisions by the governor and Republican hierarchy on a number of weighty issues, the legislature today is expected to take up a bill of minor controversy but potentially major significance to the New York State sports fan.

The legislation, sponsored by Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea, R-Montauk, and due for Assembly action today, would establish a state Sports Authority to help municipalities build or rehabilitate stadiums and other sports facilities. The lower house is also expected to consider legislation this week to extend for two years the right of insurance companies to set their own rates competitively on all but automobile insurance. Auto coverage rates would require approval of the State Insurance Department. The Senate has already passed the bill.

The Senate, meanwhile, is expected to approve new amendments to Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's tough anti-drug legislation. Those amendments, passed by the Assembly when it voted for the governor's bill last week, would soften some penalty provisions in the Rockefeller proposal—permitting probation for informers, for example. Such major issues as court reorganization, the proposed state takeover of welfare administration and a revision in the operation of off-track betting in the state are all being considered in legislative committees or by the Rockefeller administration.

The question of whether to cut back on public employees' pension benefits and by how much could reach the floor for the first time this week as Senate Civil Service Committee Chairman Richard E. Schermerhorn, R-Cornwall, attempts to bring his uniform statewide pension plan up for debate.

That move could be blocked by Senate Majority Leader Warren Anderson, R-Binghamton, who apparently is awaiting legislation based on the pension cutbacks written into the new contract with the Civil Service Employees Association, the largest state workers' union.

Rockefeller's staff has also been drawing up a compromise settlement on the proposed Adirondack Park private land-use plan to meet the objections of northern New York legislators who say the stringent controls envisioned in the plan would damage the area economically. In a weekend development, Rockefeller revised his higher education program to provide an additional $15 million in aid to private colleges, instead of $8 million.

The revised program, costing $27.3 million, also calls for the state to pick up a greater share of the costs of community colleges. The state, which now pays one-third of the operating costs, would pay 35 per cent effective July 1 and 37½ per cent effective July 1, 1974.

The Sports Authority, which Duryea has said is his No. 1 priority this session, would extend both planning expertise and borrowing power to municipalities wishing to build new sports facilities.

The agency would be authorized to issue up to $350 million in bonds that the localities would then repay. Although the state would not guarantee the debts with its own money, it would assure lenders that any municipality defaulting would lose state aid to the extent necessary to meet the debt.

Some critics of the bill have suggested that this type of guarantee jeopardizes funds needed by localities to finance such services as education, welfare and highways.

Relief Ships Shelled Near Phnom Penh

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Communist gunners set fire to one ship and another went aground Sunday night when 11 vessels carrying relief supplies to Phnom Penh tried to slip up the Mekong River under cover of darkness.

Ten of the vessels made it to the capital, but all of them sustained damage and officials said the captain of one of them was missing. There was no report of injuries among crewmen of the battered convoy.

Communists scored the hits despite heavy U.S. air support along the river.

Three young girls were killed and 24 persons wounded Sunday night when a hand grenade was tossed into a crowded marketplace at the Phnom Penh suburb of Stung Meanchey. Witnesses said the market was jammed with shopping housewives when a man hurled the grenade and fled.

In the convoy relief operation, gunners opened fire on the file of four tankers, four cargo ships and three tugs soon after they left the river town of Neak Luong, 32 miles southeast of Phnom Penh.

The tanker Vira 1, flying the Panamanian flag, was hit at Dey Dos, 25 miles southeast of Phnom Penh, and set afire. The ship was carrying 475,000 gallons of badly needed aviation fuel. The Phnom Penh port authority said the ship's captain was missing but that no other crewmen aboard the Vira 1 were hurt.

The Nationalist Chinese and Cambodian-owned cargo ship Veng An, carrying candles, oil and general supplies, was hit at Meat Krassas, about 12 miles outside Phnom Penh. It was seriously damaged and grounded at a point where the four tributaries of the Mekong meet, ships officers said.

Seamen aboard the vessels said most of the damage was done by grenades fired by rockets.

Shipping sources said the nine ships that reached Phnom Penh arrived with their cargoes generally intact. They said this included about 1.2 million gallons of petroleum, kerosene and aviation fuel.

In another operation, U.S. planes also flew support missions for a convoy of 202 trucks and trailers that traveled along Highway 4 to Phnom Penh from the deepwater port of Kompong Som, 134 miles to the southeast.

The Cambodian command said the convoy carried rice and cement and completed the journey without incident.

Military sources reported today that the situation remained critical at the province capital of Takeo, 55 miles south of Phnom Penh on Highway 2. Several mortar rounds were fired into the city Sunday, wounding at least one civilian. Meanwhile, in Saigon, an international truce helicopter carrying nine persons was fired on over Communist-held territory Sunday in the second such incident in five days, sources said, but it was not hit and no one was injured.

Air America sources said two long bursts of automatic small arms fire were directed at the International Commission of Control and Supervision (ICCS) helicopter as it descended to avoid monsoon clouds over Communist territory 98 miles southwest of Saigon in the Mekong Delta.

It carried four Polish interpreters, an American communications technician, a Canadian officer and an Air America crew of three. Air America provides the aircraft and crews for the ICCS.

Trio Charged in Kidnaping

NEW YORK (AP) — A California man and two New Jersey brothers have been charged with kidnaping after allegedly abducting a woman who was walking to a meeting of a religious sect headquartered on Manhattan's Upper West Side.

Theodore "Ted" Patrick, 43, of San Diego, Calif., and Robert DiQuattro, 30, of Clifton, N.J., the estranged husband of the kidnap victim, were charged on their return Sunday night from Bristol, Pa.

Bristol police located the woman, Esther DiQuattro, 31, at the home of her in-laws.

It was the latest in a series of alleged attempts by Patrick to "rescue" individuals from religious sects regarded as dangerous by their families. In this case, Mrs. DiQuattro's husband said the sect had "influenced my wife against her will."

Patrick, who claims to be able to "deprogram" members of sect teachings, was held in $5,000 bail. A former community relations consultant, he served at one time as an aide to Gov. Ronald Reagan of California.

The third man, James DiQuattro, 23, said to be a minister who lives with his brother, was taken into custody in New York. The DiQuattros were released pending a hearing Tuesday for the three suspects.

Mrs. DiQuattro, a member of the New Testament Missionary Fellowship of 600 W. 116th St., was kidnaped Saturday while heading for a religious service. The fundamentalist group's headquarters is located near Columbia University.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Juan Ortiz said that Mrs. DiQuattro was willing to press charges against all persons involved in the kidnaping. She works as a secretary at Teachers' College.

Patrick and Robert DiQuattro had waived extradition from Pennsylvania and were driven back by authorities. They were arrested after Mrs. DiQuattro had screamed to Bristol police that she was being held against her will.

75,000 in Protest Rally Backing Soviet Jews

NEW YORK (AP) — A rally of more than 75,000 protesters to demand better treatment of Soviet Jews highlighted local observances of Israel's 25th anniversary.

The demonstration, which began with a parade on Manhattan's Fifth Avenue that swung east to the U.N. site, was part of a series of events Sunday involving the Jewish community. Special programs were held in synagogues and temples, also.

The official celebrations got underway at sundown on the actual eve of the anniversary date. Included was the nighttime gala attended by about 4,000 persons at Lincoln Center's Philharmonic Hall.

The American Zionist Federation, which co-sponsored the gathering, released a letter sent by President Nixon to Israeli President Zalman Shazar. Nixon wrote that America's admiration for Israel's gains will "enrich and strengthen the close ties" between the nations. At the UN demonstration, speakers

PROGRESS REPORT NUMBER 1 FROM AMOCO OIL COMPANY

Divers Hunting Treasure

QUITO, Ecuador (UPI) — Two American divers started a search Friday for the fabled treasure of Atahualpa, the last Inca emperor whose people paid a $4 million ransom for him in 1532 in gold and silver bullion.

The search, sponsored by the Unitel Corp. of Atlanta, Ga., is the latest in a series of attempts to find—if it exists—a treasure legend says was buried with Atahualpa after his execution by the Spanish conquerer Francisco Pizarro.

Divers Chris Christiansen and Clint Provost said they would film the depths of the icy Llanganitis Mountain lakes, about 90 miles east of Quito, as the first step in the search.

The search centers on the lakes because it was there, a 16th century Roman Catholic priest said, that Incas hurled their treasure after discovering the Spaniards had killed Atahualpa.

The priest, Vicente de Valverde, also drew a map of the area.

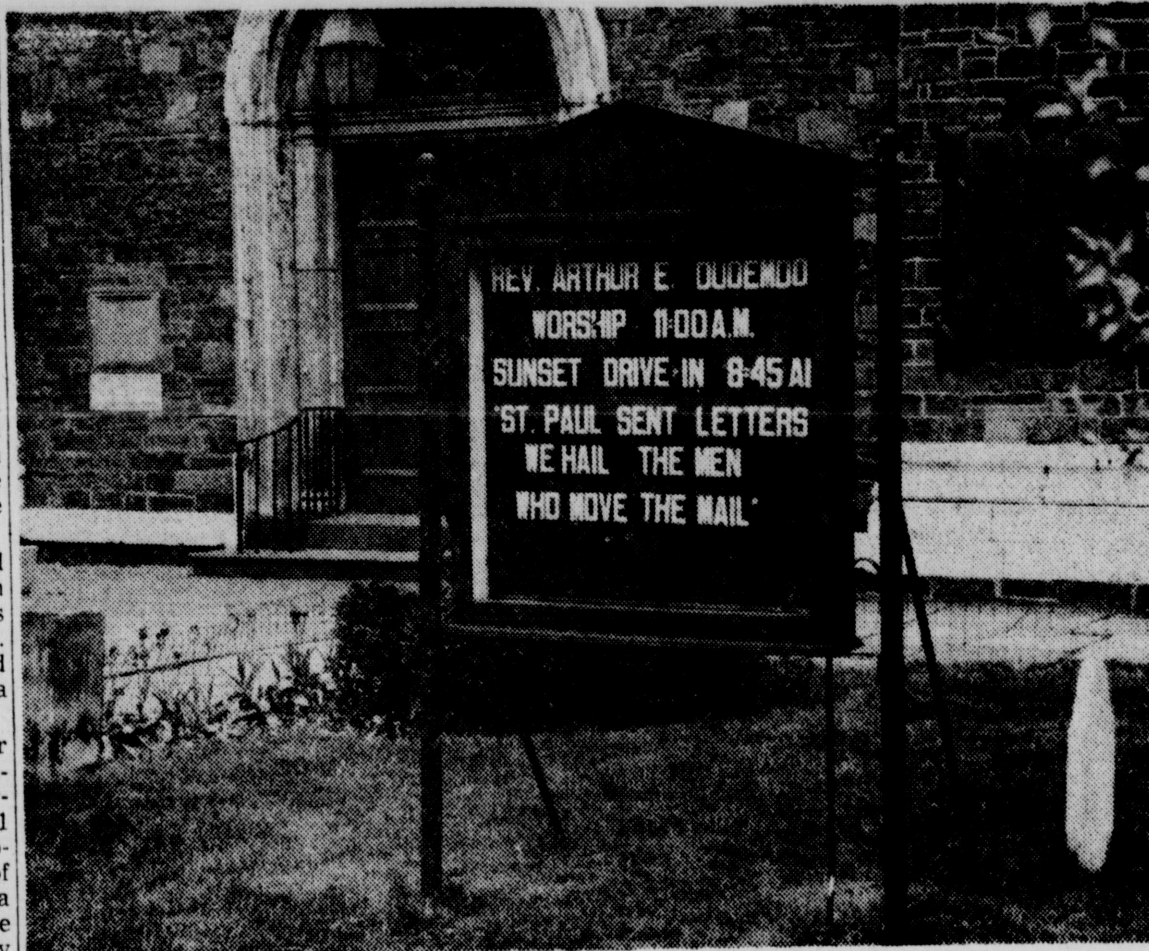

The treasure, de Valverde said, was accumulated to pay more ransom for their emperor. The Incas already had paid $4 million in bullion when Pizarro ordered Atahualpa burned as a pagan.

For centuries, adventurers have looked without success for the treasure and many of them died in the cold, foggy area.

A Swede who formed a company three years ago and raised money from countrymen to finance a search for the treasure disappeared while trying to reach the lake area.

Cristiansen and Provost said they would work underwater in an area situated in mountains 16,000 feet above sea level. Temperatures hover around freezing there and the area usually is shrouded in fog.

Joining them are five other men—an archeologist, cameraman, mountain climber, explorer and guide—plus 71 Ecuadorians to carry equipment and food. But most of them are present to film a documentary on the treasure legend rather than actually looking for it.

A POSTAL APOSTLE? — Kingston's Old Dutch Church is nothing if not aware of current events, as witness this bulletin board notice. The salute to mailmen came during National Postal Week, April 30-May 5, with an appropriate reference to St. Paul, who probably complained about the postal service back in the days when he was directing letters to the Corinthians and other unenlightened tribes. Crowd Helps In Capture of Escaped Lioness SAND LAKE, N.Y. (UPI) — A lioness escaped from a private zoo in this small Rensselaer County community Sunday and ran free for five hours before being recaptured.

Sheriff's deputies said the animal escaped from Fox's Zoo, owned by Harold Fox, when a keeper inadvertently left the gate open while cleaning her cage.

After its escape, the lioness badly mauled a horse and approached a young girl, but was frightened off by a dog, deputies said.

Some 150 persons helped chase the animal back toward the zoo, where she was shot with a tranquilizer gun and returned to her cage.

Chipp was called to the scene. He later issued a verdict of death due to natural causes (heart attack) for the 60-year-old Montafia. There was no fire at the scene, authorities reported.

The Dow Jones industrial average gained 0.38 to 954.25 in the few minutes of trading. Advances topped declines, 145 to 109, among 387 issues on the tape.

The stock market on Friday posted its third consecutive advance, continuing what many analysts called "a technical rebound." Volume picked up, cheering Wall Street, and the advance was fairly broad. The Dow jumped 8.20 on Friday and 31.68 for the week.

Investors tended to ignore the news Friday of a prime rate boost to 7 per cent from 6½ per cent by many of the leading banks. They were heartened by news unemployment figures were the same in April as March.

Early stock prices included: Steels—Armco Steel (ex dividend) 23½, off ¼; Bethlehem Steel 30½, off ¼; Motors—Chrysler 33½, up ¾; American 8½, off ½.

THE GREAT AMERICAN APPETITE.

America has a tremendous appetite. Not just for food, but for the natural resources that produce energy—gas and petroleum.

And we're running short of them, because the country is growing so fast, and using up its currently available resources even faster. People call it the Energy Crisis, and the current gasoline shortage is part of that crisis.

WHAT AMOCO IS DOING ABOUT THE SHORTAGE.

We want you to know that we're doing all we can to get as much gasoline to you as possible. In fact, we're making more gasoline than ever before in our history, up 15% in the last two years.

Amoco refineries are running at over 95% of capacity (the practical maximum with available crude). This is well above the industry average.

What's more, our refinery through-put is up about 100,000 barrels a day since 1971. And we're now importing more foreign crude than in any other time in our history. Even though foreign crude is becoming more and more difficult to get.

Also, we want you to know we're working on new refining and conversion processes and new pipeline capabilities that will increase our output even more. And we're intensifying our search for crude oil to supply our refineries. This year, Amoco and its affiliates will spend more on expansion, exploration and crude oil production than in any year before.

We wish we could say we'll solve the problem soon—and all by ourselves. But we can't do it alone. We need everyone's help. In the oil industry. In business. In government. And in every walk of American life.

WHAT YOU CAN DO.

If every American used just one gallon of gasoline less every week, there wouldn't be a shortage.

And there are many ways you can cut back. Walk a little more. Many times you can walk to the store when you have small purchases to make.

Form car pools. You and your neighbors probably go to a lot of the same places separately. Why not go together? To work. To the train. Even to meetings, parties and get-togethers.

Combine trips. Plan ahead so you don't have to make separate trips to the cleaners, and the drug store, and the grocery store.

Keep your car in top shape. A poorly tuned engine can reduce your gas mileage up to 10%.

Slow down. If you drive 50 miles an hour instead of 60, you can save about one gallon in ten. And take it easy when you start up. Jackrabbit starts eat up gasoline, too.

In summary, the gasoline shortage is no one individual's fault, but a combination of events. And it's up to all of us to find the solutions. And effect them.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, MAY 7, 1973

By JACK ANDERSON
WASHINGTON — The FBI conducted a quiet, internal investigation last February of its handling of the Watergate case. Conclusion: The White House obstructed what otherwise was a thorough investigation.

FBI officials were careful to keep any criticism of the White House out of their internal communications. This was an understandable precaution, since sensitive FBI reports had been handed over to the White House. The assistant director in charge of investigations, Robert E. Gebhardt, summarized the findings in a short, factual memo intended for FBI eyes only. "The handling of the Watergate investigation from the headquarters level through the field operation level," Gebhardt wrote to the acting associate director, W. Mark Felt, on February 23. "was done in accordance with procedures, both administrative and investigative, that are customarily employed in any major investigative effort by the FBI. "Among cases handled in the recent past in which similar procedures were followed are: The assassination of Martin Luther King; Capitol bombing, March 1, 1971; and major kidnapping cases such as the Barbara Jane Mackle case.

What the memo didn't mention was the White House role in the investigation. President Nixon had assigned his counsel, John Dean, to investigate whether there was any White House involvement in the Watergate scandal.

The FBI concluded, according to our sources, that Dean had withheld incriminating documents, covered up other evidence and sent FBI agents chasing false leads. At one point, Dean even suggested that Watergate culprit E. Howard Hunt get out of the country.

None of this was mentioned in writing, of course, since Dean had access to the FBI's investigative reports.

Footnote: In fairness to the FBI's embattled interim director L. Patrick Gray, there was no evidence he interfered in any way with the FBI investigation.

IMPEACHMENT TALK: The Capitol cloakrooms are buzzing with talk of impeaching President Nixon.

The discussion, however, has been mainly technical. Many House members are unsure how impeachment works. They, therefore, have bombarded the Library of Congress and the House parliamentarian for details.

The congressmen have been told that any member of the House can introduce a resolution to impeach the President. If the move is seconded, then all matters stop until the question is resolved.

Meanwhile, House leaders have been trying to squelch talk of impeachment. "The Republicans are doing a good job messing up themselves," Majority Leader Tip O'Neill told his colleagues privately. "Let's stay out of it for awhile."

But maverick liberals, including Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., and John Moss, D-Calif., are buttonholing their colleagues and urging that the House take strong action.

"At the very least, we should set up a committee to investigate the President's conduct in this matter," contends Representative Abzug. "We should be prepared either to clear the President or impeach him."

Immediately after the President's speech, liberal tempers were red hot. On Tuesday, several groups huddled on the House floor. The attitude from several liberals was for an impeachment resolution. The idea was rejected: the liberals decided the public wouldn't accept an impeachment resolution unless it came from the leadership or a respected Republican.

Impeachment talk continues to make House leaders edgy. They view the White House shakeup as a chance to improve relations with the President. They would prefer to let the Senate and the Justice Department handle the Watergate mess.

Footnote: Caught in the crossfire between the leadership and the liberals is House Judiciary chairman Pete Rodino, D-N.J., who is taking his cues from the history books. Rodino has introduced a bill that would require the President to appoint a special Watergate prosecutor and subject him to Senate confirmation. Congress approved a similar resolution during the Teapot Dome Scandal.

OUTBOARD MOTORS: The outboard motor lobby, led by the Boating Industry Association, has tried to depict their oil-spitting engines as little more harmful to America's lakes than a little spring rain. To be sure, the newer ones release little oil into the water, but millions of older engines still drip gunk and gas.

Now, a new survey done under the auspices of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute's famed Fresh Water Institute indicates boaters and lakeside dwellers themselves are worried about what the motors do to lakes. Dr. Nicholas Clesceri, director of the institute, has given us an advance peek at the survey which shows that among "recreationists" worried about water quality, up to 40 per cent are most concerned about "films of gasoline and oil." Yet, ironically, the study, done by K. Jack Kooyoomjian, shows only 1.5 per cent to 17 per cent of the boaters are willing to see their own horsepower cut.

Controls for Another Year

As the suspense began to build up over the possible expiration of the bill authorizing the President to install price and wage controls, hours before midnight April 30 Senator Gale W. McGee, Wyoming Democrat, refused to give up the floor and said he would talk until past midnight even if the Economic Stabilization Act expired. A good many felt that ending controls would not be a fatal blow and if it proved otherwise, a stronger act could be passed later.

But after 75 minutes of his filibuster, McGee yielded on the promise of the the leadership that he could resume the floor after the vote was taken. He was pressing for his post-card registration bill and feared it would not be called up. The Stabilization extension passed the Senate by a voice vote. Then it went to the House, where it passed by a 267 to 115 vote, a larger margin than had been expected.

Perhaps the fact that the April prices of farm products dropped 1.5 per cent, the first decline in 12 months, had something to do with it. Most of the decline was caused by lower prices for hogs, cattle, calves, lambs, milk and strawberries. Offsetting them were higher prices for onions, lettuce, wheat and broiler chickens.

The drop in farm prices was welcome, but they still averaged 32 per cent higher than the levels a year earlier. The need for price controls remains real.

SKYLAB LAUNCH IMPERILED — Electrical workers who man a key ground tracking station have struck two weeks before the May 14 launch of the Skylab space station. They certainly picked a poor time to strike. The Skylab is too important to space development to be imperiled by a wage dispute.

EVERS UNOPPOSED — Charles Evers, the only black mayor of a bi-racial town in Mississippi, is unopposed for his second four-year term as mayor of Fayette, Miss. Elected in 1969 over a white incumbent, he has done so well that neither his own Democrats nor the Republicans challenged him.

BINH DINH PROVINCE, South Vietnam — Any lingering misconception that this is a South Vietnamese civil war can be erased by a remarkable recent development: cadres from the North Vietnamese army's 3rd Division demobilized to fill civil political posts in Communist-controlled hamlets of Binh Dinh province.

That completes Hanoi-izing the Communist struggle for South Vietnam. What started as a South Vietnamese insurgency was long ago taken over militarily by North Vietnamese regulars. Now, using the ceasefire to try making the Vietcong's Provisional Revolutionary Government more than a political abstraction, Hanoi has placed northerners as political administrators in the handful of hamlets it controls here and elsewhere in South Vietnam.

This undercuts the old U.S. doctrine that the war will never end until the underground Communist apparatus — called the Vietcong infrastructure (VCI) by the Americans — is eradicated. For years, Washington pressed Saigon to wipe out the VCI through the Phoenix program, highly controversial and never very successful. What is happening now, however, suggests that not the VCI but legions of invading North Vietnamese troops constitute the heart of the insurgency.

One basic reason why northerners are taking over politically in attempts to build a Vietcong nation is the failure of the VCI to recover from its devastating losses in the failed 1968 Tet offensive. The Phoenix program's estimate of 70,000 VCI members nationwide is almost surely grossly inflated.

But if any province still has a VCI ready to assume administration, it should be Binh Dinh, a traditional Communist stronghold, thanks partly to the Saigon regime's corrupt administration and incompetent military leadership here.

South Vietnamese intelligence experts believe there are sufficient Binh Dinh VCI left to govern the limited Communist jurisdiction.

The answer is that Hanoi wants to control in Binh Dinh and elsewhere with its own men. Hanoi's strategy in South Vietnam today is principally military, not political. Unwilling either to hold elections sure to be won by Saigon or to begin building a new guerrilla-political structure, Hanoi relies on military muscle.

Inside Report

Hanoi's Military Options

Thus, the Communist cutting edge here is the North Vietnamese 3rd Division prowling around the province. After a lull late in March, the 3rd Division — reinforced and resupplied since the ceasefire began — went on the warpath in April assaulting government outposts in Binh Dinh.

Consider one recent night in Tam Quan district, the province's most fiercely contested area. North Vietnamese sappers overran an outpost manned by about 20 South Vietnamese rangers sent up from Saigon. The toll: 16 rangers killed — one of the bloody Communist ceasefire violations that seldom attract world attention. The same night, a few Communist mortar rounds were fired into a nearby village, abandoned during the 1972 Communist offensive but slowly being reoccupied by refugees coaxed back by the government.

By massacring government outposts and frightening resettled villages, Hanoi sends this message to refugees: Stay in your refugee camp and do not return to your village until we are in control. It works. Tam Quan district's return-to-village program is faltering. Around 40 per cent of the new settlers return to refugee camps, some going back immediately after picking up free tin roofing and rice in the resettled village.

The reason is mainly terror. Besides accelerating attacks on outposts and resettlement villages, there are frightening rumors (partly Communist-spread) of a Ho Chi Minh's birthday offensive on May 19. With Korean troops departed from Binh Dinh, the defense is entrusted to the 22nd South Vietnamese Division which turned and ran in the central highlands a year ago. Although the reorganized 22nd has performed much better lately, it still inspires less than total confidence here.

Intelligence experts doubt the rumored Hc Chi Minh offensive, but Hanoi still has two future options here. It can attempt cutting South Vietnam in two with the total conquest of Binh Dinh. Or it can continue harassing village resettlement, undermining confidence in the government's ability to protect its citizens. Both options are essentially military, totally dominated by Hanoi and carry few elements of genuine civil war — a description fitting the Vietnam war generally today.

Enough Poison to Kill a Horse

BERRY'S WORLD

"I simply LOVE to get knee-jerk Republicans together with knee-jerk Democrats!"

The problem of poisoners is to keep them from falling into a rut. It becomes — excuse the expression — a way of death. In all the years I have covered murder trials, I have never met a poisoner who did it once. It's akin to the Mafia for setting up a pig in a restaurant. They wait until he has a mouthful of spaghetti, then add a little lead to the clam sauce. He goes out leaking marinara.

London has thrilled to the marrow of its mustaches over a character named Graham Young, who has been handing out helpings of rat poison to those he loves. In 1962, Graham's dear daddy made the mistake of disagreeing with him. He popped his pop with poison.

It was so easy that Graham tried it on his sister, who one presumes, used to stick her tongue out at him. Soon, she was lying beside dear daddy. A school friend was next. He flunked his finals in chemistry. Scotland Yard got to Graham Young. The weakness in poisoning is those damned autopsies. The pathologist always emerges saying: "Enough poison to kill a horse." They are known to select another animal.

British jurisprudence made a mistake in adjudging Mr.

Young to be incompetent — to wit, nuts. He was sent to the "Happy College" in 1962, and in 1971, he was pronounced "cured." Graham wasn't out six months before he began lacing the tea of co-workers with thallium.

He became so engrossed that he kept a diary of their pain, cramps, declining weight, and ashen complexions. This time British justice sent Young up for life. One hopes that he is not working in the kitchen. America has had its Graham Youngs. But the best was a fretful brunette named Mary Creighton, whose small sad smile intrigued me when we met. Mary and her dull husband lived in a bungalow on Long Island. Creighton was born to be cuckolded.

Mary obliged him. She found a fast-talker next door named Everett Applegate. Ev had a wife, Ada, who was so fat she slept in a front alcove. She was a professional whiner. Everything hurt. All the time.

Mrs. Creighton found out that Everett worked in a movie projection booth. When he started a reel, he had a whole hour of standing around. So he stood around with Mary in the darkness, while, on the screen, John Gilbert was kissing the hell out of Greta Garbo.

Ada lost the ballgame when she confided to her next-door neighbor Mary that she suspected good old Ev of acting like good young Ev with some local tomato. At once, Mary began to bake custards for Ada.

Mrs. Applegate stopped whining long enough to become sick. Ev, who didn't understand the plot, sent Ada to a hospital. There, without treatment, the fat one recovered magically.

When she got home, couldn't wait to see her dear friend and those delicious custards, and she became ill again. Mary had very little patience with people who didn't pop off promptly. Ada was wheezing and dying when Mary learned that her 15-year-old daughter had been up in the projection booth with Uncle Ev.

Normally, this knowledge would have made Applegate a candidate for the custard. However, Mary spared him to work on Ada. When Mrs. Applegate was buried, Mary was the loudest crier at the grave.

The police thought Ada should be autopsied. Ev thought not. Mary was revolted at the thought. The cops won and the pathologist shook his head and said:

"Enough poison to kill a horse." Some unkind souls said that Ada was a horse.

Dr. Richard Hoffman, psychiatrist, was called in and he asked the Creighton daughter where she got the beautiful gold ankle bracelet. "Uncle Ev," she said. When Applegate was in that projection booth, he was an uncle to a lot of nieces.

It is perhaps, poetic justice that at the trial, Mary pointed to her lover and said: "He made me do it." She had no intention of sitting in the electric chair while Uncle Ev taught her teenage daughter how to thread film. The State of New York sent both off to their eternal reward.

The final irony came after the electrocutions. Someone checked the records in New Jersey and found that Mary Creighton had a load of relatives who made early and untimely trips to the cemetery. As each one was exhumed, the pathologist shook his head and said: "Enough poison to kill a horse."

That's the trouble with poisoners and pathologists. Always in a rut . . .

West Is Hurting and That's Bad for LA

It Was Reed's Finest Hour

NEW YORK (AP) — Willis Reed and Earl Monroe are happy—and Jerry West is hurting. With Reed playing "my most important game," Monroe proving he's king of the playgrounds and West not having a healthy leg to stand on in the fourth quarter, the New York Knicks beat Los Angeles 87-83 Sunday afternoon to take a 2-1 lead over the Lakers in their National Basketball Association championship series.

"I don't know if it was my best game since the injury back in 1970, but it certainly was my most important one," said Reed, New York's solid man in the middle who scored 22 points and grabbed 10 rebounds against Los Angeles' Wilt Chamberlain.

"Sure I'm happy," he said, smiling. "This was a good one to win, because it keeps us in the driver's seat. Now there are just two games to go." The Madison Square Garden crowd of 19,694—including the touring Russian basketball squad—and a national television audience saw a rather sloppy game in which the Knicks were outscored 15-2 in seven minutes of the second period, came back to trail just 47-44 at the half, moved in front with seven unanswered points in the third period and stayed one stride ahead of the defending champion Lakers throughout the fourth quarter.

"It was a strange game," said West, the Lakers' superstar who sat out the entire fourth quarter with pulled hamstring muscles in both his legs. "There was no pattern to it, no flow. It was like a playground game." And a playground game means a Monroe kind of game. "I enjoyed it today," said Pearl, who scored 21 points and came off the bench in the middle of the second period to put an end to the Lakers' 15-2 spurt. "Our offense was just stagnating. I asserted myself at the proper time."

Monroe scored six of his points in the third quarter and nine in the fourth, including an off-balance one-hander that gave the Knicks an 85-79 lead with 1:50 to go.

Reserve Keith Erickson hit two baskets to bring LA to 85-83 in the final minute, but missed a baseline shot with 22 seconds left that would have tied it. Then Walt Frazier sank a pair of free throws with two seconds to go for the final margin.

Monroe was the only guy not intimidated by Chamberlain, observed West. "He shot well when the Knicks needed the points."

There's no getting around it, Wilt really polices the lane," conceded Monroe, who like end, it really put a lot of pressure on us to have him sitting on the bench," he said.

West, who had injured a hamstring muscle in his left leg during the second game of the series, hurt a hamstring muscle in his right leg during the third period Sunday.

"Early in the third quarter I made a quick start and then changed directions," West said. "I felt the muscle pull in the right leg—but it was the left one which hurt the most."

"I was willing to go back in early in the fourth quarter, but Bill (Coach Sharman) felt otherwise."

Whalers First WHA Champions

By ALLAN R. BRUCE
 UPI Sports Writer

BOSTON (UPI) — When the right time comes, Coach Jack Kelley plans to have the New England Whalers ready to challenge the National Hockey League.

Kelley's Whalers whipped the Winnipeg Jets, 9-6, Sunday afternoon to win the first World Hockey Association championship and the AVCO World Trophy.

It was the 11th straight win at home for the Whalers, including all nine playoff games on Boston ice, and it marked the third time in three playoff series that New England wrapped matters up in five games.

The matter of a confrontation between the WHA and NHL champions was brought up earlier by Kelley's boss, Howard L. Baldwin.

Baldwin, the club president, issued a statement immediately after the Whalers' triumph challenging the winner of the Chicago-Montreal series to a one-game duel on neutral ice for the Stanley Cup.

"I have no doubt the Whalers will be the first team to meet an NHL team," Kelley said while his club spilled champagne around the cluttered New England dressing room. "We're young on defense. The forwards are young. We have a young team. It's a game of talent and we have it."

But the Whalers aren't ready for the challenge yet. "Seriously," Kelley said, "I think it will be four or five years before we could go out against the NHL."

The first man ever signed to a Whalers' contract—Larry Pleau—was the key to Sunday's win before a crowd of 11,186 and a national television audience.

Pleau banged in a three-goal "hat trick," including a pair of game-breaking scores after Winnipeg had climbed back from a 6-2 deficit to 6-5.

He put away a 15-footer at 5:44 of the third period, then hit through a screen of players less than two minutes later for an 8-5 advantage.

Tommy Webster scored twice for New England and added a pair of assists while Guy Smith, Rick Ley, Tim Sheehy got a goal apiece.

Norm Beaudin scored twice for Winnipeg and Duke Asmundson, Danny Johnson, Milt Black and Bob Woytowich got one each.

The Whalers jumped off to a 2-0 lead on goals by Webster and Pleau in the first five minutes of play and were never caught. They were in front 5-2 after one period and 6-4 after two.

Canadiens Boast 3-1 Lead

CHICAGO (UPI) — Coach Scotty Bowman had one target for his Montreal Canadiens when they try to wrap up their 16th Stanley Cup against the Chicago Black Hawks Tuesday night.

"I feel we'll have to give our best and play 60 minutes of hockey," he said. "Chicago will too."

Bowman's opinion came after his Canadiens "played our best game for 60 minutes" to whip the Hawks, 4-0, on national television Sunday afternoon with goalie Ken Dryden's first shutout in 41 Stanley Cup games.

The Montreal win gave the Canadiens a 3-1 lead over the Hawks in their best-of-seven series with the Cup at stake and meant they could wrap up the prized award Tuesday night at home, where the Black Hawks have not won in the playoffs in 11 years covering 13 games.

Both Bowman and Hawks' Coach Billy Reay agreed that Montreal's second goal, by Yvan Cournoyer, his 13th in this year's playoffs in 16 games, one short of the record hung up in 1971 by teammate Frank Mahovlich, was the turning point of the game.

"They were skating so well," Reay said. "I don't think they had one guy not skating. I don't think I've ever seen a hockey club with so many guys flying." Cournoyer's score culminated more than 90 seconds of constant pressure by the Canadiens on Hawks' goalie Tony Esposito, and he said, "When you get a lot of good chances sooner or later the puck is going to go in. We were bottled up and you can't give them that many good chances."

Cournoyer credited teammate Marc Tardif with his goal.

"He did a beautiful job," Cournoyer said. "The defenseman stayed up and he passed across to me just outside the crease."

"I just banged it and it went in the net. I saw it, but it was in the net when I did."

Despite the Canadiens' edge heading into game No. 5, Reay wasn't willing to give up.

"I don't think they can play any better than that," he said, "and I know we can."

Crampton Looking For That Big One

HOUSTON (UPI) — Bruce Crampton has won 13 golf tournaments and almost $1 million since joining the American golf tour 16 years ago, but he still isn't satisfied because he hasn't won one of the Big Four tournaments.

Crampton, a 37-year-old Australian, picked up $41,000 by winning the $205,000 Houston Open Sunday with a 11-under-par 277. He shot an even-par 72 to edge a surging Dave Stockton by a stroke.

The big paycheck boosted Crampton's earnings this year to $153,582, more than he ever has earned in a full year previously and more than any other golfer has ever earned up to this point on the tour. He also replaced Jack Nicklaus as

Secretariat: Beautiful Nag

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — The "dumb, green horse" had to be removed. But trainer blossomed into a thing of beauty long ago but, in winning the Kentucky Derby in record time Saturday, Secretariat reached the peak of perfection in the eyes of the man closest to him.

"He put on a nice show Saturday," said groom Eddie Sweat with satisfaction. "Everybody should be happy now." "When I first saw him when he came off the farm as a 2-year-old he was only a dumb, green horse, I thought," he said. "He was big and clumsy, always stumbling along. He was mean, too, always trying to eat you."

Secretariat, who set a track record of 1:59 2/5 in winning the Kentucky Derby, was scheduled to be flown to Baltimore Monday for the Preakness Stakes at Pimlico May 19. Sham, who ran a good race here but could not match Secretariat's final burst of 2:5 speed, also will be shipped to eclipsed Northern Dancer's 2:00 Maryland. Sham hit his head in flat record.

Tom Krom, Ulster County Community College's No. 1 player, was eliminated in the quarter final round of the Mid-Hudson Conference tennis championships over the weekend.

Krom captured the first set from Rich Lazette of Rockland 6-2, but bowed in the next two 6-4 and 6-0. "It was raining and cold and Krom's right shoulder tightened up," said Coach Pete Zeeh of Ulster. "I think under normal circumstances, Krom would have beaten him."

Barry Temple was beaten in the quarter finals, 6-2, 6-1 and Jerry Prendergast was eliminated in the second round by Peyton White of Dutchess, 6-3, 6-4.

The fourth member of the squad making the trip was Maurice Willacy, the soccer

"I'd sure like to get that million before him," Crampton said. "It'd be nice to be the first foreigner to make it. He was the first to get a half million."

The only million dollar golfer is Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and Billy Casper. Lee Trevino ranks fourth at $985,304.

In his final round, Crampton bogeyed No. 2 by three-putting, and No. 17 by hitting his second shot 40 feet over the green. But he sank birdie putts of 10 feet on the first hole and 20 feet on the fifth. He had a four-stroke lead over Stockton on the 17th tee, but Stockton snaked in a 20-foot putt on 17 and made a 2½-foot birdie putt on 18 to pull within a stroke.

AEYC Conference Held at Mohonk

Mrs. Derwin Stevens, president of the Mid-Hudson Chapter of the Association for the Education of Young Children, announced today that the chapter was host to a Council - for - Children Leadership Conference held at Lake Mohonk Mountain House May 4-6. Among AEYC members from Ulster County who were active in the planning and helped as hostesses at Mohonk were Lois Baker, Betty Emerick, Michele Israel, Ruth Silverman, Lois Nichols and Bonnie Stevens.

The program was the joint effort of the Association for Childhood Education (covering elementary grades through sixth), and the Association for the Education of Young Children (interested in the young child, pre-school through third grade). The conference comprised 200 leaders representing both Associations from all over New York State. Workshops were offered in a variety of problem and interest areas.

and the conference heard a stimulating address by Dean Mario Fantini of the Faculty of Education, State University College, New Paltz, who spoke on the topic "Toward Humanizing Education."

A feature of the conference was an exhibit of some 80 teacher-made materials for classroom use, devised by teachers from throughout the state, together with the publication of a booklet illustrating these 80 devices with a description of how they could be made and used. Collaborating in the production of this exhibit and booklet were June Rousch of the faculty of Dutchess County Community College, and Carol Bolton, a teacher from Vestal, New York. The booklet will be available through the Mid-Hudson Chapter of the Association for the Education of Young Children, which also publishes a listing of all the pre-schools and day care centers in the Mid-Hudson region.

Mendelssohn Honors Retiring Musicians At Recent Spring Concert in KHS

The Mendelssohn Club of Kingston, J. Anthony Hummel, director, and Ann Ryland, accompanist, presented its spring concert, Tuesday, May 1, at Kingston High School Auditorium. The Club was assisted by the Community Mixed Chorus of Poughkeepsie, Albert Hunter, director, and Virginia Amerio Schwartz, accompanist.

This concert was the occasion for honoring Mr. Hunter, since it was his concluding concert as director of the Poughkeepsie Chorus, a position he had held for 24 years. Mr. Hunter was director of the local group from 1957 to 1972 and at the conclusion of the concert was presented with a plaque citing his long and distinguished service. The fact that Ann Ryland was playing her last concert as accompanist for the group, a post she had filled with distinction for 17 years, added poignancy to the occasion. Both she and Mr. Hunter received gifts from the Mendelssohn Club.

The program was varied ranging from a Bach Chorale, through a group of negro spirituals, — from Cole Porter to opera.

The Kingston group under Mr. Hummel's direction displayed fine ensemble work, beautiful choral tone, and impeccable diction.

The Community Chorus did a fine job with some tuneful Cole Porter arrangements which displayed Mr. Hunter's flair for the idiom of the big-time musical.

Delores Beck's soprano soared faultlessly above the chorus in Rossini's Inflammatus et Accensus, and the combined choruses gave us a dramatic climax to be remembered as they sang the Beethoven "Hallelujah" from the Mount of Olives and the "Coronation Scene" from Mossorgsky's Boris Goudenov. Acclades also go to Ann Ryland and Virginia Schwartz whose assured accompaniments not only supported the singers, but enriched the entire performance. The ability of the chorus to provide more and more volume without any sign of vocal strain was most impressive.

Daniel Lee Hooper, assistant director of The Poughkeepsie Mixed Chorus, filled in for bass soloist, Robert Schaefer who was taken ill. He performed the bass solo with chorus in the Coronation Scene.

Nostalgia time included Mendelssohn Club Alumni joining the singers on the stage for the traditional singing of the club's PLAQUE PRESENTATION — Edward Sprute, left, president of Mendelssohn Club of Kingston, presented gifts of appreciation to Albert G. Hunter and Ann Ryland at the Tuesday, May 1, concert at Kingston High School. Mr. Hunter is retiring as director of the Poughkeepsie Chorus. He also directed the local club from 1957 to 1972. Mrs. Ryland is also retiring, having served as accompanist for the group for 17 years. (Pete Powell photo) signature: "Immortal Music." It is always impressive to see the devotion to music shown by these singers who give so much joy just by loving to sing, — and equally impressive is the leadership which inspires such devotion.

The capacity audience must have been a source of satisfaction to both directors and singers.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:

After the tops and bottoms of radishes have been removed, put the radishes in a covered jar filled with water and shake to get them washed.

Dear Heloise:

Suppose you run out of gasoline and you're far from a service station:

Keep an empty cardboard core from a roll of paper towels and carry in the trunk of your car at all times.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise:

This happened when one-way streets were first introduced, and traffic wasn't heavy like it is now — that is how a friend and I managed to live through it and are here to tell the tale.

I was driving, and oncoming drivers were blowing their horns and waving at us. We were under the impression that we just happened to meet a lot of people who knew us so we were waving back and blowing our horn too in greeting, pleased that so many people knew us!

After several blocks, out of the blue, I saw the one-way sign at last and was able to turn off. Can you imagine doing a thing like that now and staying alive?

Mrs. J. Timothy

The new popularity of the oversized or shapeless shirt offers many interesting fashion switches. The dress-plus-shirt is one of the prettiest possibilities. A cotton voile polka-dot shirt which can be worn with slacks can also be worn over a white dress for an entirely new outfit.

DEAR ABBY: I am a Catholic widow married to a good Catholic widower. The problem is he won't let me into our bedroom while he's dressing or undressing. And if he's in the room while I'm undressing, he turns his head. He acts as if it's sinful for us to see each other undressed.

I thought maybe time would improve the situation, but it has been years, and he's still the same.

I must admit that our sex life is wonderful — in the dark. This may not seem like much of a problem but it makes me feel less of a wife, and I am hurt.

What is the official Catholic position on nudity, Abby? Perhaps the reason for my husband's attitude can be found there.

DEAR FRUSTRATED: There is no Catholic doctrine on nudity. Nudity is the natural state and is so regarded in matrimonial affairs. You can't blame your husband's inhibited attitude on his religious upbringing. Leave well enough alone, lady. You're doing well where it counts.

DEAR ABBY: We're a couple of old goats. My husband is 72 and I'm 70.

Dear Abby

BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

We're not in the best of health, but we're not feeble or senile (I hope), and the lord willing, we will celebrate our 50th wedding anniversary in June.

We want to give a dinner party ourselves and invite our friends, relatives and a few neighbors, but our married daughter and son won't hear of it. THEY want to give the party and foot the bill.

Abby, we appreciate what the kids want to do, but they both have families and need their money. We want printed invitations with a line on the bottom, "No gifts, please." The kids are having a fit and say, "You just don't do that." (Abby, we don't need anything!) We don't want to make jackasses of ourselves,

My husband was impotent the last 10 years of his life due to illness, but I remained faithful to him even tho the desire for sex was still in me.

My friends have criticized me terribly for going with him. I feel I am entitled to a little enjoyment for as many years as I have left.

I have no intentions of marrying the young man because if I did, I would lose all my benefits. Please let me know what you think. I will abide by your decision.

Detail Plight of Urban Indians

By WADE BURKHART

NEW PALTZ
San Francisco Bay area Native American leader Adam Nordwall called his topic "one of the least understood of American Indian problems", when he spoke on the Urbanization of the American Indian at the State University College at New Paltz Friday night.

This little understood problem has led to such incidents of Indian militancy as the 19-month Indian occupation of Alcatraz, and the current confrontation at Wounded Knee, he said.

The urban Native American, through self-education prompted by the daily problems of life in the city, is acutely aware of the problems facing the American Indian, and he lacks the stake in the land Indians living on reservations have. As a result, according to Nordwall, urban Indians are in the forefront of Native American militancy.

Nordwall's address was the keynote for the Second Eastern Regional Conference on the Native American, which was held on the New Paltz Campus Friday and Saturday. The theme of this year's conference was "The Urban Native American."

Born on a Chippewa reservation in Minnesota, Nordwall is a product of the U.S. Government's boarding school program, and has experienced first-hand the problems of the Native American in the city.

Beginning in 1953, reservation Indians "by the thousands" were moved into the cities as part of a government plan to terminate the reservation system, according to Nordwall.

Once there, Indians experienced a "double-barrelled cultural shock", Nordwall said. They had the shock of moving from the rural reservations to an urban environment, and they had to make their way in what is essentially a white man's world.

Self-help programs were set up by the Indians to overcome their problems, once the Indians saw that the government was "just giving a one-way ticket to Hell," said Nordwall. These urban Indians, educated through their experiences, and frustrated by what they considered to be the unresponsiveness of the Bureau of Indian Affairs, became the militant Indians of today, according to Nordwall.

The size of the problem of the urban Native American is to force the government to abide by past treaties, and to secure for Native Americans their full rights under the U.S. Constitution.

Nordwall said there were 371 treaties with American Indians, and they had all been violated.

Nordwall's address received a standing ovation from the about 75 people attending. The address was preceded by a Native American dinner.

UCCC OPEN HOUSE — A surveying demonstration was among the many features of the annual Ulster County Community College Open House held Sunday on the Stone Ridge campus. Demonstrations were conducted in a number of credit-free course offerings such as wine and cheese tasting, weaving and calligraphy. The event, held each spring, was well attended, college officials said. (Freeman photo by Powell)

Study Expansion Of Rhinebeck High

By TIM SCHUSTER

RHINEBECK
The Rhinebeck Board of Education is considering a $1.25 million addition to the high school building as an answer to the overcrowding situation.

The proposal was made public at the recent board of education meeting, and was submitted by Dodge and Chamberline Associates, who also designed the district's Chancellor Livingston Elementary School.

The figure given was an estimate that includes a new gymnasium, eight classrooms, enlarging the present cafeteria, and renovations to the main entrance of the building.

Architect Parker Dodge, in explaining the proposal, said that this would be a more economical method of enlarging the building than attempting to construct another complete school building.

Some solution in the form of building was proposed by a special citizens group early this year after a year's study of the district. The proposal made this week would enlarge the capacity of the building to about 900 students, and would be comprised of 28,000 additional square feet of space.

The board spokesman, President Hans Boehm, said that members will deliberate on this proposal and consult with the State Education Department before making any decisions on whether or not to submit a bond proposal to voters at some time in the future, and that more detailed plans would have to be worked out prior to any explaining the proposal, said by the board.

The board also went on record as favoring the reduction of penalties for possession of marijuana, on a move by member John Grim.

Much ado has been created among district residents of late by the board's changing of a drug policy. The board originally changed the policy to have the option of sidestepping notification of parents if a child was found in possession of illegal narcotics, but when public opinion was found to be almost completely against that action, Boehm suggested a new policy study be made.

The resolution as adopted called for having possession of marijuana reduced to a violation in New York State, instead of its current status as a misdemeanor or felony. This would eliminate jail sentences and call for a schedule of fines instead.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

CAUGHT: (Q) I was baby-sitting with my four sisters for my mom. I'm not supposed to have company when she's gone but this guy I like very much came by and I didn't want to tell him to leave. So I invited him in.

My mom's fiance brought her home very early and surprised me. I hid my boy friend in the closet in my bedroom. Well, my mom came in and started watching TV in her bedroom, which is next to mine. After two and a half hours I decided to try and get my boy friend out through the win- dow.

My mom heard us and came in just as he was kissing me goodnight beside the window.

She thought we had done something sexual. We didn't do anything wrong but hide. I admit that was wrong and that I deserved the two weeks restriction I got, but I think it's un- fair for her to say I can't ever see him again.

My counselor at school says I should be able to see him. What do you think?—In Trouble in Florida.

(A) Trying to deceive your mother AFTER she came in was not the only thing you did wrong. The key was that you let this boy visit you against your mother's instructions. And, if you hadn't got caught, you might have done it again. This is the sort of thing that leads to the big wrong you are suspected of.

But I agree with your counselor that banishment of your friend is too great a punishment. Tell your mother the full truth about everything that happened, and anything similar that has happened before.

Promise her it won't happen again. Then ask her to re- consider her decision.

CALLS: (Q) Some guy has been calling me around 11 p.m. after I am already in bed. When I answer he just laughs and hangs up. My parents think this is my fault and they yell at me. But I really don't know who it is.—Mystery in Maine.

(A) Just before you go to bed, turn the volume dial on the base of your phone very low, so your family won't be disturbed. Then when the call comes let the phone ring. Don't answer it. Next morning turn the volume back up so you won't miss calls you want to get.

After a few nights of this, the boy will discover his game isn't working with you and give up.

'Delicate' Situation for Kidnaped U.S. Envoy

GUADALAJARA, Mexico (UPI) — Kidnaped American diplomat Terrence G. Leonhardy said Sunday night that he was in good health and hoped for a quick release by leaving guerrillas who seized him three days ago in exchange for 30 "political prisoners."

But Mexican official sources said the kidnapers apparently made new demands Sunday.

The demands—they were not disclosed—came hours after Mexico agreed to free the 30 prisoners and flew them to Cuba.

"The situation is very delicate," said a spokesman for the U.S. Consulate in Guadalajara that Leonhardy headed. The spokesman declined to elaborate.

Earlier, officials said the guerrillas sent three more notes, to a Peruvian envoy, a Mexican official and the U.S. Consulate. The one sent to the Mexican official apparently contained new demands.

After first saying flatly that the note contained "new demands," Gov. Alberto Orozco Romero withdrew the comment, saying he was "misunderstood" earlier. But sources said the guerrillas now demanded a cash ransom.

The report on the 58-year-old Leonhardy was contained in a brief letter he addressed to Orozco.

U.S. officials said Leonhardy's note, written in Spanish, said:

"I'm well and they're treating me well. I'm grateful for your help in making all the arrangements for my release, with the president (of Mexico). My captors have promised to free me and say they will go through with their promise at an opportune moment, so that all searching is stopped. If it's not (the following word was illegible) they will delay my release."

Other communiques were sent to U.S. vice consul Ernest Gutierrez and Mario Collignon de la Pena, the honorary consul of Peru.

U.S. officials maintained absolute secrecy on the text of the communication to Gutierrez.

In the note to Collignon, a government spokesman said, the kidnapers asked him to warn police not to launch an immediate investigation, because this would delay or jeopardize Leonhardy's release.

The letters were found in a downtown mailbox after the authorities received anonymous telephone calls about their whereabouts.

Leonhardy, married with two daughters aged six and three, was seized Friday night at gunpoint by three guerrillas who stopped his car near his home in the fashionable suburb of Providencia.

The kidnapers' demands for the government to free 30 political prisoners and to fly them to Cuba were met and the group, including 26 men and four women, arrived Sunday in Havana aboard a Mexican Air Force DC6.

Two other conditions of the kidnapers were obeyed when the Cuban charge d'affaires in Mexico City, Jorge Reyes Vega, announced the group's arrival over nationwide television and national newspapers and television published anti-government propaganda over the weekend.

MEMORIAL DAY IN JERUSALEM — Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir lays wreath at tomb of Unknown Soldier during memorial day ceremony at Mt. Herzl in Jerusalem. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Israel Shows Military Might

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Israel marked its 25th year of independence today with a show of military might, its first Independence Day military parade in five years. Earlier, Israelis celebrated with street dancing, fireworks, bonfires and an appeal to its Arab enemies for peace.

Police predicted a crowd of 500,000 persons would line the streets of the holy city of Jerusalem—sacred to Christians, Jews and Moslems—to see 2,000 troops plus air and armored power pass in review.

An air force flypast, the biggest ever assembled for the holiday and the first featuring U.S.-built F4 Phantom fighter-bombers, was one highlight.

More than 400 armored vehicles, including 100 tanks, will follow the troops. They will include newly unveiled self-propelled weapons, anti-aircraft guns and Israeli-modified, British-built Centurion tanks and captured Soviet-built T54 and T55 tanks.

Police sealed off the city to all automobile traffic. Police spokesman Michael Buchner described security precautions as the largest of their kind so far.

As the ceremonies marking the 25th anniversary began, Israelis sang, danced and paraded in the streets. Hundreds settled down around bonfires for singing and dancing that lasted all night.

Deputy Prime Minister Yigal Alon said at Safad, scene of some of the most bitter fighting during the 1948 war of independence, said Israel would not rest until there was peace between Israel and her Arab neighbors, said, Egypt has not answered.

Other officials echoed his sentiment. Prime Minister Golda Meir disclosed in an interview that Israel proposed peace talks to Egypt until there was peace between Israel and her Arab neighbors, said, Egypt has not answered.

Curfew Remains in Lebanon

BEIRUT (UPI) — Much of Lebanon remained under a dusk-to-dawn curfew today despite a generally effective truce between army troops and Arab guerrillas whose leaders continued negotiations today on their future role in this pivotal Middle East land.

Despite the cease-fire agreement reached between Palestinian guerrilla chief Yassar Arafat and Premier Amin Hafez, there were scattered shooting incidents and explosions in parts of the country.

But the mood was generally calm and despite the incidents, Beirut and five other major cities remained under a curfew first imposed last Wednesday during a raid, but later when fighting erupted between released them. Late Sunday, guerrillas and the 12,000-man soldiers and guerrillas exchanged shots in the Sin El-Fil district of Beirut.

Before the truce was arranged, officials said the fighting—no casualties were reported—was the most serious such in the Sunday incidents.

On the negotiation front, talks at least 168 persons and wounded on the future of the Palestinian guerrillas continued into the night Sunday.

Early Sunday, a rocket was fired at the headquarters of the authorities and guerrilla leader Yassar Arafat, leader of the Sidon. About the same time, Palestine Liberation Organization "armed men" seized 11 border town (PLO).

Pentagon Papers Judge to Disclose Affidavit by Ex-White House Aide

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Judge Matt Byrne is expected to disclose today the contents of an affidavit by former White House aide Egil Krogh in efforts to clarify reports linking the Pentagon papers trial to the Watergate affair.

Convicted Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt has said Krogh ordered a break-in at the office of the psychiatrist of Daniel Ellsberg, a defendant in the Pentagon papers trial in U.S. District Court here. Krogh is on leave from his job as undersecretary of transportation.

Recent events complicating the trial came in this order:

—Thursday, April 26: Nissen submitted a secret memo to the judge. Byrne summoned defendants and attorneys to an emergency court session in which he sealed the memo in an envelope and gave the government until the next morning to discuss it.

—Friday, April 27: Byrne opened the envelope and made public information from the Watergate trial prosecutor revealing a tip that Watergate conspirators Hunt and G. Gordon Liddy broke into the office of Ellsberg's psychiatrist to get the defendant's psychiatric records. The judge ordered an immediate government probe of the matter.

—Sunday, April 29: Defense lawyers announced that Ellsberg's psychiatrist, Dr. Lewis Fielding, confirmed his office was burglarized on Sept. 3, 1971.

—Monday, April 30: Byrne announced he met with Ehrlichman early in April at the Western White House in San Clemente, Calif., to talk about a government job. The defense demanded the trial be stopped and a hearing held with all Watergate principals testifying under oath.

—Tuesday, May 1: The judge made public an FBI interview with Ehrlichman, who said he knew Hunt and Liddy had burglarized the doctor's office and told them "not to do this again." Ehrlichman said the two had been hired for a special investigation of the Pentagon papers leak to the press, desired by President Nixon. He said the investigation was handled out of the office of two

White House aides—Krogh and released the 30-page transcript with details of a scheme to get Ellsberg's psychiatric records. He outlined how he and Liddy—with the aid of another Watergate conspirator, Bernard Barker, and two Cuban nationals—carried out the break-in. He said the job was ordered by Krogh and was known by Young. Hunt said the intruders couldn't find Ellsberg's records.

—Thursday, May 3: Byrne demanded that Hunt's grand jury testimony be released to him. The chief judge in the Watergate case, John Sirica, complied. Meanwhile, the Watergate prosecutor, Earl J. Silbert, refused to tell Byrne the name of the source that tipped him to the Liddy-Hunt involvement.

—Friday, May 4: The judge received Hunt's testimony and You decide.

When it comes to 5% savings accounts, you have a choice between the "regular" account and the increasingly-popular "day-of-deposit to day-of-withdrawal" account. We at Heritage recommend the day-of-deposit account for most people. Here's why.

Most people seem to make withdrawals to meet unexpected needs—and these are anything but regular. Thus, the account that's best for most depositors is one that permits withdrawals at any time without loss of interest, as long as a balance of $10 remains. And that's your day-of-deposit account.

With this account, your money earns 5% interest, with an effective annual yield of 5.20%. So, at Heritage your money earns the highest interest rate permitted by law, without the risk of losing interest for the entire quarter through premature withdrawals, as with the regular savings account.

Of course, some depositors still prefer the regular account. They find that, for their purposes, the advantage of earning interest from the first of the month on money deposited as late as the 10th outweighs the disadvantages of less flexibility in making withdrawals. For most people, however, the day-of-deposit account works out best, so we recommend it. But you decide. You know you best.
